

26

31

40

51

PHOTOS © ROCKTAPE CANINE, RACHEL DOWNS, MATT ALLISON PHOTOGRAPHY, BOBBIE LYONS

On the Cover

26 Kinesiology Taping and Canine Applications

Kinesiology taping can be incredibly beneficial to animals in sports. Veterinary professionals and rehabilitative therapists are now offering Kinesiology tape applications for joint and muscle support, proprioception, pain reduction, and more. By Lisa Vettoretti RVT CCMT

31 Better Reinforcement Strategies, Part 2: Adding Clarity to Reinforcement

The vast majority of training issues in agility boil down to the trainer's understanding of how and when to apply reinforcement, and the mechanical skills that go along with that application. By Rachel Downs and Liz Randall CPDT-KA

40 Compulsory Skills for Agility Success, Part 6: Weaves

We want all aspects of the dog's weave performance to be dependable, independent, and fast. In training compulsory weave exercises, we can think of the 12 weaves as three subsets of 4 poles: entry, continuum, and exit. By Debbie Harrison

51 A New Look at Rear-End Awareness

Many would say that rear-end awareness and rear-end muscle engagement are two different things, but they go hand in hand. It's time we reevaluate the exercises we use to teach rear-end awareness. By Bobbie Lyons

Features

4 Tip of the Month – There is so much to learn about why a bar falls. By Sandy Rogers

5 Editorializing: The Last Issue – 26 years of documenting our sport comes to an end. By Monica Percival

6 Let's Talk Puppy: Choosing a Puppy for Agility – Agility aside, our number one concern should be to find a dog breed that we mesh with. So do your homework! By Jubie Rueschenberg

Cover Dog

Haznow's Destiny of Secrets, a.k.a. Ben, a 3-year-old Russell Terrier owned by Jennifer Hassett of Wisconsin. This was his first run at his first trial! Photo by Alissa Behn/pet-personalities.com

10 Life Lessons: Agility Is Not Just Something We Do on the Side – Agility is not something we do on the side. It makes us whole. It makes life coherent and meaningful. By Beth Dixon

14 Power Paws Skills: Jumping with Jay—Half and Half – This is a setup you can use to train your young dog as well as to challenge your experienced dog just by moving a jump or two. By Nancy Gyes

19 Course Design & Judging: How to Set Level Appropriate Courses – Creating level-appropriate courses is a challenge made more complex with the need for nested designs. By Greg Derrett

23 Dewclaws 101 – Dewclaw removal is a common practice for many North American dog breeders and owners, but there are questions about the appropriateness. By Carolyn McIntyre

28 The 25% Solution: Sequences for Small Space – This month's exercises, which fit in a 40 x 60 ft. space, offer opportunities to practice forced front crosses. By John Reid

35 Backyard Mastery: Tunnel Challenges – This month is all about improving your teammate's tunnel skills. By Steve Schwarz

38 Team Small Dog Agility Humility: The Very Last Article – Maybe December 2020 is a fitting end time for Clean Run magazine. This year we went through a pandemic. Epic fires. Orange days the color of night filled with smoke. An election, by the time you're reading this. By Laura Hartwick

46 Practically Training: The Evolution Around What Never Changes – The growth of our sport is essential. We need to evolve. Let's embrace this evolution. By Sandy Rogers

49 Backyard Dogs – This month's drills are fun puzzles combining the practice of handling timing and weave pole execution comprehension. By Dudley Shumate

55 Evolution of Massage Therapy and Devices from Human to Canine – Incorporate massage into your dog's athletic routine for warm up, cool down, and recovery to help increase circulation, reduce stress and anxiety, and decrease tension. By Ally Canapp, Debra Canapp, DVM, and Sherman Canapp, DVM